LTG PATRICIA HOROHO - Lieutenant General Patricia Horoho is the first female and first Nurse Corps Officer to hold the appointment to U.S. Army Surgeon General and Commanding General of the U.S. Army Medical Command. LTG Horoho has held every level of leadership in Army Medicine. Lieutenant General Horoho's awards and decorations include the Distinguished Service Medal, Legion of Merit (2 OLC), the Bronze Star Medal, Meritorious Service Medal (6 OLC), Army Commendation Medal (3 OLC), Army Achievement Medal (1 OLC), Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal, Afghanistan Campaign Medal and various service and unit awards.

COL ARLENE GREENFIELD (posthumously) - U.S. Army Colonel Arlene F. Greenfield advocated equal opportunity and support for soldiers during her active duty service, and in her retirement. She had extensive human resources and leadership experience honed over a 30-year Army career that included three successful commands. COL Greenfield’s work with the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services (DACOWITS), the Army Human Resources Directorate and as a Department of Defense representative to the Department of Veterans Affairs, Center for Women Veterans, helped to advance opportunities for women and minorities and promote a strong Army. After her retirement from the U.S. Army in 2001, she continued to serve military personnel and women. She founded a company that researched key personnel issues impacting military members. She also donated countless volunteer hours to the Army Retiree Council, the Joint Base Myer-Henderson Hall Retiree Council, the United Service Organizations (USO), the U.S. Army Women’s Foundation, Women In Military Service for America Memorial, and other organizations.

SFC GENEVIEVE CHASE, USAR - Sergeant First Class Genevieve Chase is the founder of American Women Veterans (AWV) and a veteran of Operation Enduring Freedom. After enlisting in the Army Reserve in 2003, she volunteered to serve with the Army’s 10th Mountain Division. While deployed in 2006, her vehicle was attacked by a suicide vehicle-borne improvised explosive device. To counter symptoms of traumatic brain injury (TBI) and combat stress, SFC Chase dedicated herself to veterans’ advocacy. She has worked tirelessly to bring to light the issues faced by today’s veterans. While advocating on their behalf, she discovered a need for a focus on women veterans and their families from all eras and branches of service. From that void, SFC Chase created AWV.

6888TH CENTRAL POSTAL DIRECTORY BATTALION - The 6888th was the only all female African American battalion to go overseas, first to Birmingham, England and then to Rouen, France. They were tasked with eliminating floor-to-ceiling stacks of undelivered mail and packages addressed to U.S. service members, but stored in British warehouses. This backlog dampened the morale of soldiers serving on the front lines. The 6888th, under extraordinarily difficult working conditions, eliminated the backlog of mail.
Special Recognition Champions Awards

MAJ JASPEN BOOTHE, USAR - After seeing a homeless woman veteran who was living out of her car featured on The Oprah Winfrey Show and hearing that there are estimated 55,000 homeless women veterans in America, MAJ Boothe decided to act. She launched what would become Final Salute, her non-profit organization to provide safe housing for homeless women veterans and their children, a service not readily accessible to women veterans—the fastest growing population of the homeless – Boothe says. In just three years, Boothe’s organization has supported more than 300 women in 15 states.

THE CENTER FOR WOMEN VETERANS (CWV) - In November 1994, Public Law 03-446 required the VA to create the CWV as a means to monitor and coordinate VA programs for women. The Center for Women Veterans (CWV) established with the support and urging from Disabled American Veterans (DAV) and other veterans service organizations, celebrated two decades of serving women veterans in November 2014. Betty Mosley Brown is the current Acting Director of the Center for Women Veterans.
